On his radar: China, Italy,
Indonesia, Peru & beyond

Yes indeed, we're back with another month of Sean's Picks, our highly (very highly!) coveted list of trips curated by one of our esteemed Adventure Architects.

Sean's travelled far and wide, soaking up the heart of every destination, all in pursuit of crafting the perfect adventure. This month, it's a sensory smorgasbord.

Let's dive into his picks.

Where Sean's loving this month:

Highlights of China

"Bullet trains between cities, dumplings in Xi'an, pandas in Chengdu, karst mountains in Yangshuo. Fifteen days and I could've stayed fifteen more."
– Sean

Indonesia: Candidasa, Mt Rinjani & the Gilis

"The Gili Islands alone would justify this trip. Everything before them — Rinjani's foothills, the cooking classes, the village walks — is just Indonesia showing off."
– Sean

Local Living Italy: Amalfi Coast

"Slow travel done right. Same stunning coastline every morning. Different pasta every night. No complaints whatsoever."
– Sean

South Korea Explorer

"Palaces and pop culture and the best fried chicken of my life, all on the same day. South Korea is a lot. In the absolute best way."

– Sean

Machu Picchu Adventure

"Everyone says it'll take your breath away. Everyone is right. The Inca Trail, the ruins, the scale of it all. Machu Picchu is that good."

– Sean

Discover Japan

"Ancient temples in the morning, the world's best convenience store snacks at midnight. Japan has more going on than any one place should."

– Sean

Solo-ish Costa Rica

"Zip-lined through a cloud forest, spotted sloths in the wild, made lifelong friends by day two. The Solo-ish format just works, especially somewhere this good."
